Violence

Violence is a really big concern, not only in our neighborhoods but in the entire world. It not only affects the neighborhood physically, but mentally too. It makes others believe that the neighborhood itself is bad. Many innocent people are killed in acts of violence every day. Some ways everyone could help stop the violence is to just be kind to everyone instead of rude and having an attitude with someone for no reason, or they could enforce the laws more in the world and get it to stop. A lot of the violence you don't see but you know it's there. The war in Iraq is a good example of this. So many people die every day in the war but it doesn't affect everyone in the world except those close to the person who died. In this picture, the band aids represent the process of healing. Everyone who helps a little can impact the world when all those little things come together. Violence is a major issue and can be prevented with a little love and help from the world.
