In my artwork, it shows a dark sidewalk. Rain is falling onto the wilted grass. There is trash on unkempt lawns. Inside of a large puddle, there is a reflection of the same world, but instead, it is Martin Luther King, Jr's vision. He wanted the world to free of trash just thrown carelessly on the ground. He wanted the world to be happy, free of such things like litter, racism, and segregation. That is the vision in the puddle. As it keeps raining the puddle grows larger, as more people understand what is right.
