I would love to help animals in need. I would love to know why some people beat and not feed their animals. If you have an animal the main reason is to care for it and have a companion. One of the biggest things I hate is when people chain up their dogs in their back/front yard. A lot of people beat their animals and just random animals. “Why” is the million dollar question? You have to be cruel-minded to do that. I would love to make a law where if you mistreat your animal you go to prison. If you beat your animals then you will receive very cruel punishment. I would make chain-machines, like restaurants, where there are machines across the world where if you recycle, like a water bottle, dog food comes out the chute for homeless dogs.

In conclusion, I would love to mostly change the way people mistreat their animals.
